Annals of Emerging Technologies in Computing (AETiC)

Editorial

Dear Reader,

When I wrote the editorial for the first edition of the Annals of Emerging Technologies in Computing (AETiC), I said that it was "our vision that the new journal will quickly become a recognised and authoritative repository for research and innovation that has a significant impact on the world in which we live." While it is true that the development of the journal is a work in progress, it is very pleasing to see how its scope and geographical reach has developed since its launch. For example, in this edition we have papers that cover both theoretical and practical considerations. Moreover, the papers come from a truly international (Joran, Slovakia, USA, UK, and Ukraine) community.

It is my hope that we will continue to have your support as we maintain and enhance our endeavours to publish high quality research carried out by a diverse but collegiate community of schoolers and practitioners.

With best wishes.

Professor Andrew Ware,
On behalf of the Editorial Board,
Annals of Emerging Technologies in Computing (AETiC).
